

ABSTRACT OF DISCLOSURE

An improved method of blast suppression involves forming a foam barrier in proximity to a bomb or other suspicious device. The foam is maintained in position by a containment structure which is inflated and kept in an inflated state by the foam used to 5 form such barrier. Various containment structures and methods are disclosed for suppression of compression waves and combustion effects caused by an explosive event.

F:\DATA\Tma\2277.2Burner-Foam\Docs\patentapp.rev.1.wpd